Welcome Message

As 2010 president of the Urban History Association and chair of the program committee, I’d like to welcome you to the fifth biennial Urban History Association conference in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Sociologist Sharon Zukin, our keynote speaker on Thursday night, will address issues of authenticity in a talk based on her new book, Naked City: The Death and Life of Authentic Urban Places. On Friday at lunch, water policy expert Pat Mulroy will discuss water and sustainability in the Las Vegas region. After dinner on Saturday evening, I will give a brief presidential address, “I Have Seen the Future’: Selling the Unsustainable City in 1939.”

Many sessions will explore the theme, “Sustainable Cities?” We have papers that probe the definition of sustainability in varied times and places. While sustainability has often been defined as planning for the future, UHA members often investigate the history of urban visions. Paper sessions and roundtables also offer diverse approaches to many other metropolitan topics. The conference includes qualitative and quantitative research in urban history; analyses employing GIS mapping; comparative studies; explorations of race, gender, class, and space; research on architecture, the environment, technology, and science; presentations on historic preservation including small cities and towns; and several sessions honoring classic works of urban and suburban history.

Attend panels, stop at the book exhibit, but be sure to save some time to head out in the city. Las Vegas has fostered much public debate – on casino architecture, urban design, gaming, water policy, and hotel and restaurant unionization, to name just a few controversial issues. There are several field trips exploring the metropolitan region and its history of rapid, expansive growth. As part of the conference, the UHA has also organized workshops for graduate students writing dissertations.

Many thanks to our local host, the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, and to all of the sponsors listed in the program. I’d also like to acknowledge the work of the UHA program committee members including Francesca Ammon, Amy Chazkel, and Greg Hise. Much appreciation is due the local arrangements committee headed by Eugene Moehring, and to his assistant, Megan Weatherly. UHA executive director, Janet Bednarek, and our board members have all worked to make this a successful event. UHA is pleased to have many members here from the Society for American City and Regional Planning History. We will be hosting their board meeting as well as our own.

Have a wonderful four days in Vegas.

Special Events

OPENING RECEPTION
WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 20, 6-7:30 P.M. – GREENSPUN HALL

Please join us under the solar panels on the second floor open plaza of UNLV’s new Greenspun Hall, home of the Greenspun School of Urban Affairs, on Maryland Parkway. Hors d’oeuvres and a bar will be available. UNLV President Neal Smatresk will welcome the Urban History Association to the campus.

PRE-PLENARY RECEPTION
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21, 5-6 P.M. – SPECIAL COLLECTIONS, LIED LIBRARY

Join us for a pre-plenary reception. Hors d’oeuvres and a cash bar will be available in Special Collections. UNLV’s sustainability librarian, Marianne Buehler, as well as several Special Collections librarians, will be hosting the event and greeting delegates as we prepare for the plenary session at 6 p.m.

PLENARY SESSION
THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21, 6-7:30 P.M. – AUDITORIUM, BARRICK MUSEUM

Located in the Harry Reid Center for Environmental Studies complex just east of Lied Library, by the Xeric Garden, the Marjorie Barrick Museum is filled with Native American artifacts from the surrounding Mojave Desert as well as some of the desert’s native plant and small animal species. The Donald Baepler Xeric Garden outside between the Museum and John Wright Hall contains many of the plant species found in the southern Nevada area. At 6 p.m., Dr. Sharon Zukin, Professor of Sociology at Brooklyn College and City University of New York Graduate Center, will deliver a plenary address entitled “The Invention of Authenticity: How to Channel New York’s Inner Vegas.” She will also be available to sign copies of her new book, Naked City: The Death and Life of Authentic Urban Places, after the event.

PLENARY LUNCHEON
FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22, NOON-1:30 P.M. – TAM ALUMNI CENTER GREAT ROOM

On Friday from 12:05 to 1:30 p.m. in the Great Room of Tam Alumni Center (located about 100 yards north of the Student Union), there will be a buffet lunch followed by a 30-minute presentation (with Q&A to follow) by Pat Mulroy, Director of the Southern Nevada Water Authority, who will discuss water and sustainability in Las Vegas and the Urban Southwest. Mulroy is a major figure in American water politics. After implementing a successful water conservation program with Las Vegas residents and Strip resorts, she negotiated a multi-year agreement with Arizona to purchase water originally bound for Phoenix and Tucson from the Central Arizona Project. Mulroy has also signed a pact with Utah to purchase water from sources in the southwest portion of that state as well as several agreements with California water districts to take some of their water from Lake Mead. Her most controversial move is the Water Authority’s current effort to build a 250-mile pipeline into eastern Nevada’s rural areas (opposed by ranching interests and some environmentalists) to tap aquifers for Las Vegas’ projected needs later in this century.
FIELD TRIPS

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22, 1:45–4:30 P.M.

Buses will pick up passengers on the north side of the Harry Reid Center for Environmental Studies at 1:45 p.m. and will also pick up passengers at the Hyatt Place at 2 p.m. before departing for the tour.

Tour A: Downtown, The Strip, and Green Valley

Tour Guide: Gene Moehring (UNLV)

The bus will leave UNLV and go north through some old downtown neighborhoods and then pass by the Fremont Street Experience and the new Symphony Park (including architect Frank Gehry’s iconic design for the newly-opened Lou Ruvo Brain Institute), which is the center of the city’s current revitalization projects. The bus will then head south down the old Los Angeles Highway and along the Strip (where resorts on the west side will be covered) then out to Green Valley, one of Henderson’s large master-planned communities. The bus will then return to the Strip for a look at resorts on the east side.

Tour B: The West Side and Red Rock Canyon

Tour Guides: Claytee White, Greg Hise, and Andrew Kirk (UNLV)

The bus will head first to the West Side, an old white neighborhood that became Las Vegas’ major African-American community (once formal segregation began) in the late 1930s. Claytee White, Special Collections’ Director of Oral History, will lead that tour. The bus will then go farther west to Summerlin, one of the nation’s most densely-planned master communities, where Greg Hise will point out important features. Finally, the bus will travel beyond the metropolitan limits to nearby Red Rock Canyon, whose spectacular sandstone cliffs serve as a fitting backdrop for the popular Red Rock Canyon National Conservation Area. UNLV environmental historian Andrew Kirk will lead this part of the tour.

Tour C: Hoover Dam and Boulder City

Tour Guide: Michael Green (College of Southern Nevada)

The bus will proceed down the Boulder Highway into Henderson and then on to Hoover Dam, where delegates will be able to see the dam area and the new Mike O’Callaghan-Pat Tillman Memorial Bridge south of the dam. The bus will also tour the federal town of Boulder City (where the dam builders lived in the 1930s) before returning through other parts of Henderson to the Hyatt Place.

PRE-BANQUET RECEPTION

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 23, 6-7 P.M. – TAM ALUMNI CENTER GREAT ROOM

Please join us for an hour of light refreshments and a Host Bar sponsored by Phil Ethington (Editor of Urban History) and Cambridge University Press, as a prelude to our conference banquet and Presidential Address.

BANQUET

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 23, 7-9:30 P.M. – TAM ALUMNI CENTER GREAT ROOM

Our banquet will feature a choice of entrees that will include chicken piccata, broiled salmon and a vegetarian dish. Following our dinner, UHA President Dolores Hayden will deliver her Presidential Address, which is entitled “‘I Have Seen the Future’: Selling the Unsustainable City in 1939.”

Graduate Student/Dissertation Workshops

The Graduate Student/Dissertation Workshops are made possible through the generosity of volunteers—faculty members who are willing to give of their time and talents to provide insight and guidance to members of the next generation of urban scholars. This year eight graduate students will participate in the workshops. They will be mentored by the following distinguished scholars:

- Carl Abbott, Portland State University
- Matthew Klinge, Bowdoin College
- Mark Rose, Florida Atlantic University
- Jon Teaford, Purdue University

The Urban History Association extends its thanks to this year’s dissertation workshop mentors.

Graduate Student/Dissertation Workshops

The Graduate Student/Dissertation Workshops are made possible through the generosity of volunteers—faculty members who are willing to give of their time and talents to provide insight and guidance to members of the next generation of urban scholars. This year eight graduate students will participate in the workshops. The list of mentors is available on page 17. The Urban History Association extends its thanks to this year’s dissertation workshop mentors.

Plenary Luncheon
Tam Alumni Center Great Room
Friday, noon-1:30 p.m.

Following a buffet lunch, Pat Mulroy, Director of the Southern Nevada Water Authority, will discuss water and sustainability in Las Vegas and the Urban Southwest. Mulroy has negotiated agreements with Arizona, Utah, and California to ensure Las Vegas has enough water to sustain its growing population.

Field Trips (Bus Tours A, B, C)
Friday, 1:45-5 p.m.

Join some of Las Vegas's most notable historians for guided excursions to some of the city’s most notable areas. Buses will pick up passengers on the north side of the Harry Reid Center for Environmental Studies at 1:45 p.m. and will also pick up passengers at the Hyatt Place at 2 p.m. before departing for the tour.
